

2025 RESEARCH FUNDING

Diabetes Australia is dedicated to reducing the incidence and impact of diabetes on people, health systems and society. We work with people living with or at risk of diabetes, their families and carers, health professionals, researchers, funders, other diabetes organisations and the community to positively change people's lives.

In 2025, Diabetes Australia will provide vital funding for diabetes research projects across Australia, including:

- A limited number of General Grants for 2025 that will be offered to 2024 General Grant Applicants that attained a fundable score following a rigorous competitive peer-review process conducted in late 2023.
- A new category of Grants - Diabetes Community Priority Grants. Four Grants of up to $100,000 each. Applications open in October 2024. More details to come.
- Two $150,000 Millennium Awards: one for type 1 diabetes and one for type 2 diabetes Applications close 31 July 2024
- One $150,000 Charles Campbell Coghlan OAM Emerging Researcher Award for an early to mid-career researcher Applications close 31 July 2024

Application forms and further information are available at diabetesaustralia.com.au/diabetes-australia-research-program

The Diabetes Australia Research Program is made possible by the generous support of the Estate of Charles Campbell Coghlan OAM, the Thiele Foundation and all our generous supporters, partners and donors.
